News

Business Value

Events go big when it comes to work places. That's why there's company news to keep managers and the workforce updated. However, with the accumulating data within the company, it's really hard for people to actively track news.

The News module is a simple way to communicate events, policy changes or simply for getting feedback from a specific group of employees about a new project. Publish department, team or group specific news to keep your employees regularly informed and updated, while allowing them to comment and give feedback.

Advantages

- Select the recipients of the news and target specific, users and groups
- Easy to use on all devices
- Allows editing to include the most recent changes made to your news

Key Features

- Customizable to suit your needs and preferences
- Noticeably improves your company's internal communication
- Keeps everyone posted with the latest news
- Impossible to miss alerts