

Organisational Structure

Business Value

Establishing a company structure and hierarchy is essential not only for your business, but for the correct functionality of many other WebAtlante modules. Our Organisational Structure module is used for the structure and hierarchy of your organisation for managers to establish different levels of management and their immediate superior and/or subordinates.

This is particularly helpful for everybody to know who they are responsible for and who they report to. All other modules operate based on the Organizational Structure module, which can be adapted to several formats, according to what better fits with your own business structure and other related factors.

Advantages

- Detailed employee information which includes the indirect/direct subordinates and direct/indirect supervisors.
- Allows editing to include the most recent changes made to your organisational structure
- A better fuller view of your organisational structure and employees who work in different parts of the organisation
- Highly configurable information

Key Features

-  Customisable view of the organisation hierarchy, branches, departments and groups
-  The module makes it is easy to track employees operating in multiple locations.
-  This module is a way to easily and effectively manage changes under a merger or acquisition.
